Special Opportunities Fund, Inc.

August 29, 2014

Dear Fellow Shareholders:

Despite the stock market's phenomenal run since March 2008, investors have shown little fear of heights, at least through the date of this letter. On June 30, 2014, the Fund's market price closed at $16.70 per share, down 4.33% from its closing price of $17.45 per share on December 31, 2013. (Conversion of almost all the convertible shares during the period resulted in dilution of $1.44 per share.) For the same period, the S&P 500 Index gained 7.14%.

The Fund's recent underperformance is due in large part to the widening of the discount to net asset value after the retirement of our convertible preferred stock was announced in January. By early 2014, the price of the preferred stock had increased in value so much that it had become a proxy for the common shares and some preferred shareholders had converted their shares to common shares. Rather than having to deal with unplanned conversion requests on a one-by-one basis, the board determined to retire all the convertible preferred stock. Although we feel the Fund had properly accounted for the dilutive effect of the convertible preferred shares in reports to shareholders, the stock price of the common shares fell about 6% on the day of the announcement.

As a reminder, the goal of Special Opportunities Fund is to outperform the market over the long-term with less short-term risk than a broad-based index fund. We have been incurring, and probably always will attempt to incur, less risk than the S&P 500 Index. Currently, we have a fair amount of investments that have little or no correlation to the stock market such as SPACs and special situation stocks like Gyrodyne and Imperial Holdings.

For shareholders that have become accustomed to extensive discussions about our current investments, this letter may be a disappointment. We always want to afford shareholders as much insight as possible into our investment philosophy and our thinking. On the other hand, we have become increasingly concerned about disclosing details about our current investments that could have a harmful effect on the Fund. A respected value investor once put it this way: "Truly good investment ideas are simply rare commodities, particularly so when price discipline is so infused into our decision making process." Bulldog Investors, LLC, the Fund's investment advisor, gets paid to try to make good investments for the Fund's benefit and, when necessary, to take measures to enhance their value. As a prominent legal scholar told me privately, "[The problem] is that disclosure is [available] to friend and foe alike....The foes, e.g. competitors, can use that information to construct their own portfolios."

In particular, as an activist fund, we have become acutely aware of the free rider problem. With that in mind, we have determined that, from now on, we will only elaborate on our current investments if we believe there is a low probability that it will negatively impact the Fund's performance. The investments discussed below fall into that category.

Special Opportunities Fund, Inc.

To compensate for the lack of specifics herein, we invite all shareholders to attend the annual meeting in person at a date and location in the New York City area to be announced. I promise to be as open as possible until the Fund's counsel kicks me under the table.

Gyrodyne Corporation of America (GYRO)

Just before the end of 2013, Gyrodyne paid a special dividend of $66.56 per share consisting of $45.86 in cash and the balance in units of an untraded LLC. In addition, Gyrodyne distributed nontransferable "dividend notes" with a face value of $10.89 per share. A plan of merger was to be put to a shareholder vote at a special meeting which, if approved, would have resulted in the LLC units and dividend notes being converted into publicly traded equity interests (at pre-established ratios) in a newly formed company with a goal of maximizing the value of that company. However, the unusual distributions apparently led to a shift in the shareholder base from value investors to day traders. The result was that a quorum was not reached and the special meeting has been postponed. We continue to believe there is value in Gyrodyne's stock and in the other Gyrodyne securities. Given our experience as activists and our long history as investors in Gyrodyne, we may seek to play a role in unlocking Gyrodyne's intrinsic value.

Imperial Holdings (IFT)

To recap, following an FBI raid on Imperial's office in September 2011, we commenced buying stock at about $1.60 per share. We later gained representation on the board with an immediate goal of reducing the cash burn that was being driven by inordinate legal expenses. We have made substantial progress since then. On June 30, 2014, Imperial's shares closed at $6.82 per share vs. a stated book value of $9.83 (not including dilution from the exercise of Imperial's convertible notes). A portfolio of life insurance policies with an aggregate face value of approximately $3 billion, which is valued by assuming an average discount rate of about 19% per annum, represents substantially all of Imperial's book value.

Imperial's board and management team are focused on maximizing shareholder value by reducing expenses, especially legal expenses, defending Imperial's life insurance policies from challenges to their validity by carriers, and capitalizing on opportunities to enhance shareholder value as a result of its improved financial position. There are still risks but, absent any calamities, we think the stock price could rise significantly over the next five years. Those that want to do their own research might wish to check out an archived presentation that was given at Imperial's June 5, 2014 annual shareholder meeting at <http://ir.imperial.com/events.cfm>.

Western Asset Inflation Management Fund (IMF)

We began to purchase shares of IMF, a closed-end fund that invests in inflation protected government securities, at a double-digit discount in the third quarter of 2013. A key factor in our decision was that a standstill agreement entered into several years ago by a very large shareholder had recently expired. On November 22, 2013, we filed a Schedule 13D indicating that our group owned over 8% of the outstanding shares of IMF and stating that we “intend to communicate with management about measures to address the disparity between the Fund’s stock price and its net asset value.” Purely by coincidence, the other large shareholder filed its own Schedule 13D on the very next business day disclosing that it would nominate candidates for election to the board of directors. We saw that filing as leaving management with no choice but to provide a liquidity event. IMF’s discount narrowed after the filing but we continued to buy aggressively because we thought it would inevitably go to zero. Sure enough, on January 21, 2014, IMF announced a proposal to dissolve the Fund and it liquidated on June 2, 2014.

SPACs

Our portfolio continues to have a significant weighting in SPACs or blank check companies. A SPAC raises funds from investors in an IPO that are placed in a trust account while the sponsor pursues the acquisition of an unspecified company. Each SPAC is unique, but most are issued as units consisting of a share of common stock plus a “free” warrant. The common stock provides us with a modest return and we hope to make money on the warrants if a successful transaction is completed (because, with the elimination of a possible liquidation, the warrant price often increases, sometimes substantially). Otherwise, we just make a modest profit or break even, give or take a few cents per share.

Foreign Closed-End Funds

As we have mentioned, we are planning a spin-off of a new closed-end fund with a primary focus on investments in foreign closed-end funds and similar vehicles. The plan has been delayed due to certain concerns expressed by the SEC’s Division of Investment Management. However, we expect those concerns to be resolved very soon and hope to be able to consummate the spin-off by the end of the year. We continue to see value in offshore closed-end funds that trade at a relatively wide discount or have discount control measures such as periodic self-tender offers or a commitment to permit shareholders to vote on the fund’s continuation at some time in the future.

Why We Invest in Closed-End Funds

The Fund is almost always heavily invested in closed-end funds. A diversified portfolio of well-selected discounted closed-end funds should generate outperformance over the long term and limit short term risk. In this and future letters, we will explain why we like closed-end funds.

Every thinking investor buys an asset that he thinks is cheap and sells those assets that he thinks are fairly valued or overvalued, or at least less undervalued than some other asset in which the proceeds can be re-deployed. In that sense, every thinking investor is a “value investor.” The problem is determining the fair value of an asset. For example, investors that bought Amazon early this year at more than $400 per share must have thought it was cheap. Otherwise, why buy it? It is now below $350 per share. Is it cheap now? The truth is that no one knows the answer with any degree of certainty because the factors that affect Amazon's prospects at any point in time are perceived, weighted, and processed differently by different people.

Another example of the inherent difficulty of valuing a company's stock is the well-publicized (and entertaining) feud between two high profile very vocal activists, Bill Ackman and Carl Icahn, over Herbalife. Ackman claims Herbalife is an illegal pyramid scheme and is short the stock. He has been attempting to induce federal regulators to investigate Herbalife with the goal of shutting it down. Icahn, meanwhile, has taken a large stake in Herbalife, says it is undervalued, and that Ackman is "completely wrong" and his crusade is "almost bordering on the insane." Thus, despite the fact that they are looking at the same facts, two very intelligent and very successful investment managers are poles apart on Herbalife's valuation. We have no dog in this race¹ but that should give pause to anyone who thinks valuing an operating company is cut and dried.

Contrast that with a closed-end fund trading at a double-digit discount to its net asset value, e.g., Swiss Helvetia Fund. We think both Ackman and Icahn would agree that SWZ is cheap.² While there are other factors to consider before investing in a closed-end fund, the most important factor is almost always the discount. Thus, errors in valuation are much less likely, and hence short term risk is significantly lower, with a discounted closed-end fund than with an operating company.

Sincerely yours,

Phillip Goldstein
Chairman

¹ However, even if Ackman is right, we are dubious about his chances of getting regulators to act. Harry Markopolos tried for years, without success, to get the SEC to shut down Bernie Madoff's Ponzi scheme. And, as documented in his book, "Fooling Some of the People All of the Time," David Einhorn not only failed to get the SEC, the Justice Department or the SBA to act against Allied Capital's accounting fraud, but he himself became the target of an investigation.

² There are likely other reasons that Ackman and Icahn might not invest in a closed-end fund, including legal constraints, the inability to put huge amounts of money to work in a reasonable time, and the fact that they are looking for assets with greater, albeit more uncertain, undervaluations (and hence higher returns) than closed-end funds.

Past performance does not predict future performance. The return and value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor's share, when sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost. The Fund's common stock net asset value ("NAV") return assumes, for illustration only, that dividends and other distributions, if any, were reinvested at the NAV on payable dates for dividends and other distributions payable through December 31, 2009 and reinvested at the NAV on the ex-dividend date for dividends and other distributions payable after December 31, 2009. The Fund's common stock market price returns assume that all dividends and other distributions, if any, were reinvested at prices obtained under the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan (which was terminated on January 1, 2010) for dividends and other distributions payable through December 31, 2009 and reinvested at the lower of the NAV or the closing market price on the ex-dividend date for dividends and other distributions payable after December 31, 2009. NAV and market price returns for the period of less than one year have not been annualized. Returns do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder could pay on Fund dividends and other distributions, if any, or the sale of Fund shares.

* The Fund's investment objective and investment adviser have changed. See Note 1 of the Notes to financial statements for more information about the change in investment objective and see Note 2 of the Notes to financial statements for more information about the change in investment adviser. On January 25, 2010, the Fund began investing using its new investment objective, therefore, performance prior to that date is not relevant.

The S&P 500 Index is a capital weighted, unmanaged index that represents the aggregate market value of the common equity of 500 stocks primarily traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

- (1) Calculated using the average shares method.
- (2) Recognition of investment income by the Fund is affected by the timing and declaration of dividends by the underlying investment companies in which the Fund invests.
- (3) Total net asset value return is calculated assuming a $10,000 purchase of common stock at the current net asset value on the first day of each period reported and a sale at the current net asset value on the last day of each period reported, and assuming reinvestment of dividends and other distributions at the net asset value on the payable date for dividends and other distributions payable through December 31, 2009 and reinvested at the NAV on the ex-dividend date for dividends and other distributions payable after December 31, 2009. Total investment return based on net asset value is hypothetical as investors can not purchase or sell Fund shares at net asset value but only at market prices. Returns do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder could pay on Fund dividends and other distributions, if any, or the sale of Fund shares.
- (4) Total market price return is calculated assuming a $10,000 purchase of common stock at the current market price on the first day of each period reported and a sale at the current market price on the last day of each period reported, and assuming reinvestment of dividends and other distributions to common shareholders at prices obtained under the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan (which was terminated on January 1, 2010) for dividends and other distributions payable through December 31, 2009 and reinvested at the lower of the NAV or the closing market price on the ex-dividend date for dividends and other distributions payable after December 31, 2009. Total investment return does not reflect brokerage commissions and has not been annualized for the period of less than one year. Returns do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder could pay on Fund dividends and other distributions, if any, or the sale of Fund shares.
- (5) Annualized.
- (6) Interest expense represents interest and fees on short term floating rate notes issued in conjunction with inverse floating rate securities. Interest income from such transactions was included in income from investment operations.
- (7) Does not include expenses of the investment companies in which the Fund invests.
- (8) Does not include expenses of the investment companies in which the Fund invests, interest expenses, or dividends on short positions.
- (9) The ratio of expenses to average net assets includes tax expense. The before waiver and expense reimbursement and after waiver and expense reimbursement ratios excluding tax expense were 2.18% and 2.18%, respectively.
- (10) In 2009, the preferred shares were auction rate preferred shares.
- (11) Not Annualized for periods less than one year.
- (12) Less than 0.5 cents per share.

Note 1

Organization and significant accounting policies

Special Opportunities Fund, Inc. (formerly, Insured Municipal Income Fund Inc.) (the "Fund") was incorporated in Maryland on February 18, 1993, and is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, as a closed-end diversified management investment company. Effective December 21, 2009, the Fund changed its name to the Special Opportunities Fund, Inc. and changed its investment objective to total return. There can be no assurance that the Fund's investment objective will be achieved. The Fund's previous investment objective was to achieve a high level of current income that was exempt from federal income tax, consistent with the preservation of capital.

In the normal course of business, the Fund may enter into contracts that contain a variety of representations or that provide indemnification for certain liabilities. The Fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown, as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Fund that have not yet occurred. However, the Fund has not had prior claims or losses pursuant to these contracts and expects the risk of loss to be remote.

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with Accounting Principles Generally Accepted in the United States of America requires the Fund's management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies:

Valuation of investments—The Fund calculates its net asset value based on the current market value for its portfolio securities. The Fund obtains market values for its securities from independent pricing sources and broker-dealers. Independent pricing sources may use last reported sale prices or if not available the most recent bid price, current market quotations or valuations from computerized "matrix" systems that derive values based on comparable securities. A matrix system incorporates parameters such as security quality, maturity and coupon, and/or research and evaluations by its staff, including review of broker-dealer market price quotations, if available, in determining the valuation of the portfolio securities. If a market value is not available from an independent pricing source or a broker-dealer for a particular security, that security is valued at fair value as determined in good faith by or under the direction of the Fund's Board of Directors (the "Board"). Various factors may be reviewed in order to make a good faith determination of a security's fair value. The auction rate preferred securities are valued at cost, unless other observable market events occur. The purchase price, or cost, of these securities is arrived at through an arms length transaction between a willing buyer and seller in the secondary market and is indicative of the value on the secondary market. Current transactions in similar securities in the marketplace are evaluated. Factors for other securities may include, but are not limited to, the type and cost of the security; contractual or legal restrictions on resale of the security; relevant financial or business developments of the issuer; actively traded similar or related securities; conversion or exchange rights on the security; related corporate actions; and changes in overall market conditions. If events occur that materially affect the value of securities between the close of trading in those securities and the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange, the securities may be fair valued. The amortized cost method of valuation, which approximates market value, generally is used to value short-term debt instruments with sixty days or less remaining to maturity, unless the Board or its delegate determines that this does not represent fair value.

Special Opportunities Fund, Inc.

Notes to financial statements (unaudited)

The Fund has adopted fair valuation accounting standards that establish an authoritative definition of fair value and set out a hierarchy for measuring fair value. These standards require additional disclosures about the various input and valuation techniques used in measuring fair value. Fair value inputs are summarized in the three broad levels listed below:

Level 1—Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Fund has the ability to access.

Level 2—Observable inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly. These inputs may include quoted prices for the identical instrument on an inactive market, prices for similar instruments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, yield curves, default rates and similar data.

Level 3—Unobservable inputs for the asset or liability, to the extent relevant observable inputs are not available, representing the Fund's own assumptions about the assumptions a market participant would use in valuing the asset or liability, and would be based on the best information available.

The availability of observable inputs can vary from security to security and is affected by a wide variety of factors, including, for example, the type of security, whether the security is new and not yet established in the marketplace, the liquidity of markets, and other characteristics particular to the security. To the extent that valuation is based on models or inputs that are less observable or unobservable in the market, the determination of fair value requires more judgment. Accordingly, the degree of judgment exercised in determining fair value is greatest for instruments categorized in Level 3.

Special Opportunities Fund, Inc.

Notes to financial statements (unaudited)

The inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement falls in its entirety, is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety.

The significant unobservable inputs used in fair value measurement of the Fund's investment companies, corporate bonds, and promissory notes, are (1) cost and (2) indicative bids or price ranges from dealers, brokers, or market makers. Significant changes in any of these inputs in isolation may result in a change in fair value measurement.

In accordance with procedures established by the Fund's Board of Directors, the Adviser shall initially value non-publicly-traded securities (for which a current market value is not readily available) at their acquisition cost less related expenses, where identifiable, unless and until the Adviser determines that such value does not represent fair value.

The Adviser sends a memorandum to the Chairman of the Valuation Committee with respect to any non-publicly-traded securities that are valued using a method other than cost detailing the reason, factors considered, and impact on the Fund's NAV. If the Chairman determines that such fair valuation(s) require the involvement of the Valuation Committee, a special meeting of the Valuation Committee is called as soon as practicable to discuss such fair valuation(s). The Valuation Committee of the Board consists of at least two non-interested Directors, as defined by the Investment Company Act of 1940.

At each regular quarterly Board meeting, the Adviser delivers a written report (the "Quarterly Report") to the Board regarding any recommendations of fair valuation during the past quarter, including fair valuations which have not changed. The Board reviews the Quarterly Report and discusses the valuation of the fair valued securities.

The Valuation Committee reviews all Quarterly Reports and any other interim reports, and reviews and approves the valuation of all fair valued securities. This review included a review and discussion of an updated fair valuation summary with appropriate levels of representatives of the Adviser's management.

The following is a summary of the fair valuations according to the inputs used as of June 30, 2014 in valuing the Fund's investments:

The following table presents additional information about valuation methodologies and inputs used for investments that are measured at fair value and categorized within Level 3 as of June 30, 2014:

	Fair Value June 30, 2014	Valuation Methodologies	Unobservable Input ⁽¹⁾	Impact to Valuation from an increase in Input ⁽²⁾
Closed End Funds	$ 100,501	Market Assessment and Company- Specific Information	Discount to Last Reported Net Asset Value	Decrease
Auction Rate Preferred Securities	$2,451,250	Market Comparables	Comparability Adjustments/ Broker Indications/ Company Announcements	Increase
Preferred Stocks	$5,763,582	Cost	Market Assessments/ Financial Assessments	Increase
Common Stocks	$ 281,945	Market Transactions Approach	Discount to Market Price for Share Restrictions	Decrease
Special Purpose Acquisition Vehicles	$2,184,374	Market Transactions Approach	Adjustments for Dividends and Announcements by Company	Increase
Promissory Notes	$2,234,000	Cost	Terms of the Note/ Financial Assessments/ Company Announcements	Increase
Warrants	$ 9,683	Market Transactions Approach	Discount to Market Price for Share Restrictions	Decrease

⁽²⁾ This column represents the directional change in the fair value of the Level 3 investments that would result from an increase to the corresponding unobservable input. A decrease to the unobservable input would have the opposite effect.

Short sales—The Fund is authorized to make short sales. Short sales are transactions where a fund sells securities it does not own in anticipation of a decline in the value of the securities.

Short sales carry risks of loss if the price of the security sold short increases after the sale. In this situation, when a fund replaces the borrowed security by buying the security in the securities market, the fund may pay more for the security than it has received from the purchaser in the short sale. The fund may, however, profit from a change in the value of the security sold short, if the price decreased.

Special Opportunities Fund, Inc.

Notes to financial statements (unaudited)

As collateral for its short positions, the Fund is required under the 1940 Act to maintain segregated assets consisting of cash, cash equivalents, or liquid securities. The amount of segregated assets are required to be adjusted daily to the extent additional collateral is required based on the change in fair value of the securities sold short.

Investment transactions and investment income—Investment transactions are recorded on the trade date. Realized gains and losses from investment transactions are calculated using the identified cost method. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Interest income is recorded on an accrual basis. Discounts are accreted and premiums are amortized using the effective yield method as adjustments to interest income and the identified cost of investments.

Dividends and distributions—Dividends to Common Stockholders from net investment income and distributions of net realized capital gains, if any, will be declared and paid at least annually. Dividends and distributions to common shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. The amount of dividends from net investment income and distributions from net realized capital gains was determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations, which may differ from U.S. generally accepted accounting principles. These “book/tax” differences are either considered temporary or permanent in nature. To the extent these differences are permanent in nature, such amounts are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their federal tax-basis treatment; temporary differences do not require reclassification.

Subsequent events

In preparing these financial statements, the Fund has evaluated events and transactions for potential recognition or disclosure resulting from subsequent events through the date the financial statements were available to be issued. This evaluation did not result in any subsequent events that necessitated disclosures and/or adjustments, other than the event listed below:

The Fund intends to make an additional payment of $9.98 per share to those former shareholders of the Fund's Convertible Preferred Stock whose shares were redeemed on March 3, 2014 for a cash payment of $50 per share. All but 4,366 shares of preferred stock were converted into common stock by the close of business on February 28, 2014, the conversion deadline, and the Fund then converted the remaining shares. In view of the ambiguity that resulted from varying descriptions of the conversion and redemption procedures in the articles supplementary to the charter of the Fund versus the Fund's prospectus, annual report, and subsequent press releases, the Fund has determined to provide the shareholders whose stock was redeemed the value in cash that is equivalent to what they would have received had the Fund converted their shares into common stock at the close of business on February 28, 2014, i.e., $59.98. Therefore, the Fund intends to pay an additional $9.98 per share in cash to the redeeming shareholders in addition to the $50 they received upon redemption to reflect the
